A Must-Read for Anyone Interested in the Holocaust, World War II, and the Power of the Human Spirit

The Holocaust was one of the darkest chapters in human history, a time of unimaginable suffering and loss. But even in the midst of such darkness, there were stories of hope and resilience. One such story is that of Rózia Litman, a young woman who survived the horrors of the Holocaust and went on to live a full and meaningful life.

Rózia's story is told in the extraordinary and moving book 'Little Sister' by Tomasz Cichawa. Cichawa, a Polish journalist and historian, spent years researching Rózia's life and interviewing her family and friends. The result is a book that is both a gripping account of Rózia's experiences during the Holocaust and a testament to the power of the human spirit.

Rózia was born in Poland in 1928. She was a happy and carefree child, but her world was turned upside down when the Nazis invaded Poland in 1939. Rózia and her family were forced into a ghetto, and then they were sent to Auschwitz-Birkenau, one of the most notorious Nazi concentration camps.

In Auschwitz, Rózia witnessed unspeakable horrors. She saw her family members being murdered, and she was forced to work as a slave laborer. But even in the midst of such suffering, Rózia never gave up hope. She found solace in her faith and in the love of her fellow prisoners.

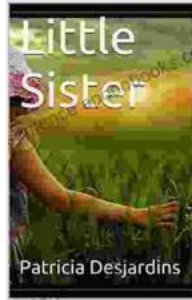

After the war, Rózia was liberated from Bergen-Belsen, another Nazi concentration camp. She weighed only 65 pounds and was suffering from typhus. But she was determined to rebuild her life. Rózia immigrated to the United States, where she married and had a family. She also became a tireless advocate for Holocaust education and reconciliation.

'Little Sister' is a powerful and inspiring story that will stay with you long after you finish reading it. It is a story of survival, hope, and resilience. It is a story that will remind you of the darkness that is capable of existing in the human heart, but it will also remind you of the light that can shine even in the darkest of times.
