Williams Ford Veterans Cemetery: A Sanctuary of Honor

Established in 1948, Williams Ford Veterans Cemetery is the largest of its kind in Texas, spanning over 300 acres. As you approach its hallowed gates, a sense of reverence and gratitude washes over you. The serene grounds are meticulously manicured, with rows upon rows of pristine white headstones standing as silent sentinels.

Among those interred here are veterans from every major conflict in American history, from the Revolutionary War to the present day. Their stories are as diverse as the battles they fought, but they share a common thread: their unwavering devotion to their country.

Williams Ford Veterans Cemetery is more than just a resting place for the fallen. It is a living memorial that celebrates the lives of those who served. The cemetery hosts numerous events and ceremonies throughout the year, including Memorial Day and Veterans Day observances, where the community gathers to honor the sacrifices made by our veterans.

Notable Features:

- Final resting place for over 250,000 veterans and their families
- Dedicated sections for veterans of specific conflicts and military branches
- Monument to the Unknown Soldier
- Chapel and administrative building for ceremonies and gatherings

Texas University Military Cemetery: A Haven for Aggie Heroes

Just a short distance from Williams Ford Veterans Cemetery lies the Texas University Military Cemetery, a hallowed ground dedicated to the memory of those who served in the Texas A&M University Corps of Cadets.

Established in 1917, the cemetery is home to over 2,000 graves, including those of fallen Aggies, faculty, and staff members.

The cemetery is a tranquil oasis, with towering oak trees providing shade and a gentle breeze carrying the scent of wildflowers. Each grave is adorned with a simple white headstone, bearing the name, rank, and dates of service of the deceased.

Among those interred at Texas University Military Cemetery are Brigadier General Arthur F. Woods, who led the Corps of Cadets during World War I, and Lieutenant Colonel Milton R. Young, a decorated veteran of the Korean War. Their stories serve as a reminder of the indomitable spirit and unwavering courage that have always been synonymous with Texas A&M University.

Notable Features:

- Final resting place for over 2,000 Aggie veterans and loved ones
- Dedicated memorials to fallen cadets and faculty
- Tranquil setting with towering oak trees and lush landscaping
- Historic chapel for ceremonies and gatherings
