In a world where travel is often reduced to a race against time and a quest for the next perfect Instagram photo, it's easy to forget the true essence of exploration. From Afar, a collection of travel essays by Frank Scozzari, is a refreshing antidote to this modern-day travel malaise.

Scozzari is a seasoned traveler who has spent decades exploring the far corners of the globe. In From Afar, he shares his insights and experiences from his travels, taking readers on a literary journey through distant lands and unknown cultures.

From the bustling streets of Marrakech to the serene temples of Kyoto, Scozzari's essays offer a unique perspective on the world. He writes about the beauty he has witnessed, the challenges he has faced, and the lessons he has learned along the way.

But From Afar is more than just a travelogue. It is also a meditation on the human experience. Scozzari's essays explore the universal themes of love, loss, connection, and identity. He writes about the people he has met on his travels, the stories they have shared, and the impact they have had on his life.

Through his evocative prose and insightful observations, Scozzari invites readers to question their own assumptions about the world and to see it from a different perspective. He challenges us to embrace the unknown, to seek out new experiences, and to live life to the fullest.

From Afar is a beautifully written and thought-provoking book that will appeal to anyone who loves to travel, read, or simply explore the world from the comfort of their own home.
